LEONARD RELATES PLANS FOR FUTURE OF STATE AT STUDENT REC DANCE

Dr. J. Paul Leonard, president of the college, related the hopes and plans for the future of San Francisco State College before a crowd of students at the dance in the gym last Friday.

Principal among the plans are the already authorized program for the training of teachers of the mentally retarded and physically handicapped and a World School of Business.

The training of the teachers for the handicapped children will begin this fall, Leonard said, and will be the first complete program of its kind on the Pacific Coast. It will include the teaching of teachers for the hard of hearing, the deaf, the blind and other physically handicapped children. Another phase of the program will be the training of teachers for the mentally retarded. Already planned, he said, when the college moves to its new campus (a bout which Leonard seemed quite hopeful), is a large plant which will be solely devoted to this program.

As a part of the new World Trade Center to be established in San Francisco a World School of Business will begin at the college the coming year, the president said. The school will include programs which will give complete training in world trade, import, export and all principal phases of world business.

Other plans discussed by Leonard were those concerning the expansion of the teacher training program, commerce, radio and other departments.

Leonard said that the total enrollment for summer session was 2116, including 1733 at S.F. State and nearly 400 at the two off-campus summer sessions at Modesto and Santa Rosa. Leonard explained that the two off-campus summer sessions were established "to bring the college to the students who could not come to the college."

Leonard also said that building on the 56 acres already owned by the college at Lake Forest would begin within the next year.

PLAYS TOMORROW NIGHT AT FBA

Three one-act plays, "Little by Little," "Dark Afternoon," and "Outrageously Outrageous" will be presented tomorrow night in Frederic Burk Auditorium at 8:15.

The plays, all three written by Edmund Reynolds, are being produced by the local chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatics fraternity. Price for admission is 25 cents with student body card and 50 cents without. Tickets may be purchased tomorrow night at Frederic Burk or at Dean Ward's office, Rm. 121, College Hall. Sponsors of the plays are Mrs. Iva Hoggson and Mr. Ray Doyle.

CREDIT GIVEN FOR CONSUMER CONFERENCE

One or two units will be given students attending the Consumer Conference, August 11-23. The conference may also be audited, according to Murch C. Baker, summer session director.

The conference will include study of problems of the effective and intelligent use of income for the home, purchasing food, and relation of the consumer to the advertiser.

RADIO DEPARTMENT TO EXPAND

Expansion of the radio department to include all phases of commercial radio begins this fall, Ray Doyle, department head announced this week.

A speech or drama major with emphasis on radio has been set up, and the fundamental courses will be offered the coming semester. One course, Speech 17: Fundamentals of Radio Techniques, will be a survey of the complete radio field and will be a prerequisite to most of the radio courses.

Other courses to be offered in September are radio speech, radio workshop, radio dramatics, radio acting, radio production, radio management, radio announcing, radio administration, music for radio, and radio continuity writing with a graduate course in individual problems of radio also to be given.

In the spring semester of 1948 three courses will be added, with the possibility of others. They are radio law, radio news, writing and television technique.

Doyle said that the radio department will then probably offer more in the combined fields of radio and television than any other school or college in the Bay Area.

Three more instructors are being added to the staff, he said all having experience in commercial radio.

Doyle stated that there are two objectives of his department: to train teachers the importance and use of radio as an educational medium, and to train people for commercial radio with emphasis on the broad general patterns of the small market radio station.

Doyle, himself, has had considerable experience in the field of radio, having set up a radio department at the University of New Hampshire while still a student and worked at several small New England stations as an announcer, news-caster, producer and in other various jobs.

During the war Doyle was in charge of an entertainment program in the third fleet and produced and directed a show which was presented by air and on stage to the capital ships of the fleet and the principal island bases of the Southwest Pacific.

At one point Doyle won the respect and admiration for his staggering imitation of Admiral Halsey, fleet commander, at one of the shows before a large group of sailors.

After the war Doyle worked for the Mutual Broadcasting System and attended the School of Radio Technique, Radio City, New York. While with MBS he not only did work in his former capacity but was a builder of several small stations in the West.

Doyle came to State last fall and is at present teaching fundamentals of radio technique and platform speaking at summer session. He is sponsor of the daily noon broadcast from Annex B.

Last year Doyle had many eminent radio personalities come to the college to speak to his classes and hopes to expand that activity in the future. He also says that he hopes to establish some private instruction courses in radio and television for those already in the field and those interested in pursuing it.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES TO BE HELD FOR GRADUATES ON AUGUST 8

Commencement exercises for graduating seniors and students receiving credentials will be held the afternoon of August 8, it was announced by Hugh C. Ficker this week.

The affair will be held in Fredrick Burk Auditorium and will be followed by a reception in the Activities Room.

Thirty-five seniors will receive A. B. degrees, and 17 additional students will receive credentials.

No announcement concerning the program has been made.

PUBLICATIONS ON SALE

State's literary magazine, Inklings, and yearbook, the Franciscan, are on sale at the student body office, Hut 4. Inklings includes the writings of many students who, themselves, are not connected with the journalism department. Price of Inklings is 15¢, and that of the Franciscan is $1 and 33¢.

LATE NOTICE

The three one-act plays which were scheduled for tomorrow night only will also be given Saturday night, same time, same place, according to an announcement made to the POST this morning.

"PROGRESSIVE" PARTY IN GYM FRIDAY

A progressive games party will be held in the gym tomorrow, 11-1. The recreation class of Miss Celia Strauss is giving the party, to which all students and faculty members are invited.

The same class gave the dance in the gym last Friday noon, which was enthusiastically received by a large group, according to student leaders.

Miss Strauss remarked that her students received valuable experience and that the party tomorrow will be even better coordinated.

POST SESSION FACULTY

Art sc-106, flower arrangement, may be taken for one or two units. Mrs. Josephine Righetti, instructor of the course, will be on campus next Monday to give a display of wrapping gift packages and parcel post. More than 400 students have signed up for Post Session with 80 signed up for Mr. William G. Ford's Class, The History of California.

In conjunction with the Nursery School Education Course to be held here, the National Association for Nursery Education will hold its conference at the end of August.

EDUCATION WORKSHOP EXPANDS ACTIVITIES, SETS UP NEW INTEREST GROUP STUDIES

Another series of eight interest groups has been added to the program of the Education Workshop, it was announced by Dr. Francis Drag, director.

Originally, said Dr. Drag, special interest groups were established in subject areas, but because of the desire and enthusiasm of the students new groups have been established in eight fields. They are kindergarten education, inexperienced teachers, multigraded teachers, curriculum, primary, primary-intermediate, intermediate, and emergency teachers. The complete workshop staff sits in on all of the group discussions.

The present workshop has received high acclaim from administrative officials of the college, in its endeavor to enable all its students to qualify themselves for satisfactory performance of jobs in the elementary field.

More than 300 are enrolled in the workshop. That number includes students who are undergraduates but who are working for an elementary credential, emergency teachers who are working for a permanent credential, and teachers in service who wish to supplement their knowledge of materials and methods.

Dr. Drag said he was highly pleased with the results achieved so far and said that all credit should be given his staff.

"The staff through their congeniality and enthusiasm, their single purpose, and their unstinted efforts have made it possible to present our materials in the easiest manner," said Dr. Drag. "I have never seen a group of people work so well together."

Students and faculty of the workshop have conceived and participated in many activities, he said, principal of which was the breakfast at the Fairmont last Monday morning at which the group participated in the radio program, "Breakfast on Nob Hill."

Students and teachers were interviewed on the program. Another activity planned will be a fashion show in Frederic Burk Auditorium next Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. Fashions will be modelled by professional models from the Mademoiselle School of Charm.

Dr. Drag is a member of the visiting faculty, his permanent job being Director of Curriculum for the San Diego County schools. This is his fifth year at that post, Dr. Drag having previously served as director of teacher training at Humboldt State College and as a member of the Division of Education, State Department of Education.

Other members of the staff include demonstration teachers (for whom Dr. Drag had considerable praise), Miss Vivian Scoggins, Mrs. Anna Gerholdt, and Miss Una Cotter; reading, Mrs. Jessie Williams, assistant professor of education at Chico State; social studies, Miss Nova Hagaman, primary supervisor of Long Beach schools; Mrs. Alma Truesdale, chairman social activities; and Mrs. Esther Dahl, office assistant.

NEW ART EXHIBIT ON DISPLAY

A new exhibit goes on display today in the Activities Room. The exhibit will consist of the works and projects of approximately 17 students from Mr. M. Hyde Irwin's Art 30-130 class.
